PRESBYTERY OF SYDNEY.

LAW REPORT

A banquet tendered to Alderman Alexander Dean, his brother aldermen and other personal friends, prior to his departure for Europe, took place last night at the Town Hall. His Worship the Mayor of Sydney (Mr. A. J. James) presided, and the chair was occupied by Mr. J. G. Macleay and the Hon. John Sutherland (Minister for Works) on the left. Alderman Burdakin, M.L.A., and Mr. J. Woodhouse were the vice-chairmen, and altogether about 700 persons were present. The guests were warmly welcomed by the civic representatives, and the Hon. C. J. Robertson (Postmaster-General), W. McMillin, D. O'Connor, M.L.A., Aldermen, Withers, Chapman, and Jeanneret, Messrs. J. G. Macleay, J. H. Jones, Dr. MacLaurin, and Messrs. J. Davies, C.M.G., Henry Wise, C. Hayne, P. Riley, J. Tait, senior, and G. M. Pitt. Apologies for non-attendance were received from Henry Parns (Colonial Secretary), Aldermen Blair, and John McLaughlin. After dinner, which was excellently served by Mr. Baumann, the usual loyal toasts were proposed and duly

Mr. McWILLIAM proposed, "The Ministry." In honouring this toast they were honouring the highest possible aspect of the Constitution under which they lived. The members of the present Ministry were men of first-class talent and ability, and he believed that, whether they were right or wrong in their policy, they would honestly try to carry out what they believed to be right. (Applause.)

The toast was cordially honoured.

Mr. STUTHELAND (who was heartily received) responded. He said that the Ministry would do what they believed to be right, whatever might be the results to themselves, and, that, he believed, was what the country required. They would be in the Ministry, and they were supported by a large majority in Parliament, and he thought they would be able to do what they professed before they lost the majority. (Applause.)

Mr. ROBERTS also briefly responded.

The CHAIRMAN then proposed the toast of "New England South Wales," for whom Mr. BUDDECK responded.

The CHAIRMAN then proposed the toast of the evening—"Our guest, Alderman Dean." (Applause.) Although he had been known to him intimately for the last two years and he had been acquainted with the name of Alexander Dean as long as he could remember, Mr. Dean had been spoken of as one looked up to as one of their model citizens. (Applause.) He tendered to him that evening a welcome such as his friends laid themselves open to the same criticism that they excelled against for other entertainments of this kind. It was a tribute to his character which would have done honor to glorious victories, or some great statesman or some distinguished character who had come to the front on grand occasions, and it was a tribute without anything detracting from the deprecate celebration of that character.

He thought there were times when they should bear testimony to the sterling social qualities of a modern citizen. (Cheers.) He gladly bore testimony in a manner like this (he present) to the qualities of such a man as Alexander Dean. (Hear, hear.) Dean had lived here for twenty-one years as a hard-working man of business, whose monuments met them at almost every corner of our streets.

of good citizenship, and had more than once been returned by his fellow-citizens to look after the welfare of the city which he had done so much to adorn. In his representative capacity he had been elected Alderman Alderman Alderman, bear testimony to Alderman Dean's unwavering integrity, his honesty at all times, his sympathy with all suffering, and his courage whenever he has been called upon to do his duty. (Hear, hear.) With such associates as these three was an honor to them as colists, and when their guest went back to the grand old country to which they were proud to belong the people there would say that they were glad to have him when they were here, and that they would home such men as Alderman Dean. (Hear, hear, hear.) We carried with him the good feeling not only of the Mayor and Aldermen of the city, but the great majority of the population of New York which was that they would return to us before very long in the enjoyment of good health. (Applause.)

Robert Brodie, lately a resident of Pymont, and formerly a partner in a firm of commission agents carrying on business in Sussex-street, was yesterday charged before Mr. G. W. F. Addison, S.M., in the Water Police Court, with having obtained possession of the estate of his late father-in-law, James Addison, Esq., by surrendring his estate, and that the said estate so surrendered was duly adjudged to be sequestrated as insolvent; that the said Robert Brodie had been guilty of obtaining possession of the said estate, contrary to law, and was, in fact, an insolvent within the meaning of the said insolvency laws; and before the said surrender, and before the said sequestration of the estate of the said Addison, he had obtained possession of the same, contrary to law, and was, at the time, an insolvent within the meaning of the said insolvency laws, and before the said surrender, and before the said sequestration of the estate of the said Addison, he had obtained possession of the same, contrary to law, and was, at the time, an insolvent within the meaning of the said insolvency laws.

January last, he, said Robert Brodie, did embezzle, conceal, retain, and remove part of his estate from the said Addison, to wit, £200, and the sum of £200 shillings at one time, to wit, the sum of £200 at one time with intent thereby to defraud his creditors."

Mr. G. H. Reid appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Gauchat for the defence.

Harold H. Kitch, clerk in the Insolvency Court, produced the papers, schedule, petition of the insolvent, and the order of the Chief Commissioner of Insolvency verifying the facts stated in the indictment.

Edward Milner Stephen, official assignee in the estate of the said Addison, also appeared, and deposed that the defendant was the person referred to in the order produced, which was issued by the Commissioners of Insolvency.

Frank Niles, clerk in the employment of the Orient Steam Navigation Company, gave evidence that on the 81st day of December, 1906, he saw the defendant, who was named Robert Brodie, who was to leave the colony in the ship "The Orient," bound for London.

Liguria, for London.

T. D. O'Donnell, detective head of the Victorian police, was called to the stand at Williams-town shortly after 2.30 p.m. on the 8th January last; he was then on the pier, from which the Liguria was about to start. He was asked to answer on his oath to the following reply: on repeating the question, the defendant asked him why he desired to be told his name; he answered that he was not a detective, but a policeman, and that he was not charged with having obtained money by means of a false pretence; the defendant said that he knew nothing about the matter; he asked the defendant to repeat the question; the defendant said: "Nothing." he then told the defendant that he had £200 there, besides a portmanteau and a rug; the defendant denied this, and he was subsequently asked to repeat the question; he then said that the purser on board the Liguria held £500 of his money, and requested that a portion of this should be used to pay the defendant's bill.

William Taylor, manager for Messrs. J. W. Gray and Co., of Sussex-street, deposed that at the end of last year the defendant was indebted to the firm to the extent of £450, and that he had been asked to pay the same; he said that he intended to leave the colony; he saw the defendant at Williams-town in the custody of a detective, and upon being asked to repeat the question, he said that he was told that he (the defendant) had left the necessary amount of money with his father at Pittwater to be forwarded to him; he had received no written communication to that effect.

Alexander Gillespie, solicitor, gave evidence that on the 23rd December last he paid the sum of £400 2s. 1d. to the defendant.

Hugh Macpherson, manager of the Pyrmont branch of the Mercantile Bank, deposed that in December last he paid the sum of £200 to the bank to the extent of £230, and that the money had not been paid.

Several other debts having been proved, the defendants were committed to prison, and the questions for trial were allowed, himself in £150, with two sureties in £75 each or one in £100.

UNIVERSITY PRIZES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Would you allow me space in your paper to call attention to an injustice to University students of the past year?

According to a by-law of the University calendar, every student who gains first-class honours at the yearly examinations shall receive a prize of books (of certain value) for every first-class honours he gains.

Now, the students who gain first-class honours are, of course, two, three, and four first-class honours respectively, yet after they have been granted the Senate determines to give prizes only to students for the year who "docked" their first only class, after having fairly, according to calendar rules, won a set of prize books, the student who has gained one first-class gets nothing, while the man who has docked his first class course to flourish in the Sydney University, gets a set of prize books, only as much as one who has won two.

Who are the students' friends in the Senate? Do they know, and see this injustice to the energetic and persevering?

How many weary hours some students have toiled through the night to the day that they might have some reward to show for their career; yet to be told after they have won their rewards that they shall not get them is certainly not the way to induce those who intend taking their course to flourish in the Sydney University. Hoping this letter may be the means of drawing the attention of the Senate before it is too late.

I am, &c.,
A RICHMOND GRADUATE.

A special general meeting of the Ashfield Amateur Athletic Club was held at the club house on Friday evening, July 17, when the following resolutions were passed:

The rules and bye-laws will be held until Friday evening.

The committee held a meeting last Wednesday, at which time they decided to hold their annual meeting on May 1, at Ashfield Recreation Ground, was drawn up:—

100 Yards Champion Flat Race, 160 Yards Maiden Flat Race, 200 Yards Handicap Flat Race, 400 Yards Handicap Flat Race, 800 Yards Handicap Flat Race, 1 Mile Handicap Walk, 2 Miles Bicycle Handicap, 5 Miles Bicycle Handicap, 1 Mile International Walking Match. Entries for events, except the 1 mile walk, closed on Saturday, June 29.

On April 27 The committee have not included a Strangers' Handicap, as in the event of next Friday's meeting it would be impossible to include one.

Some idea about every competing member of the E. S. A. A. Club and numerous other members have signified their intention of joining the club.

If the club is restricted to persons living within the present boundaries (Petersham to Burwood), or if they find there are too many competitors from outside the district, new members who will compete. The International Walk will include the following:—Hardwick, M'Phail, Cuffin (New South Wales), and others.

It is hoped that some of the American clubs, therefore prove most interesting.

PIGEON SHOOTING.
A handicap pigeon shooting match was shot off at Tarana on the 9th instant, when a good company came forward. The first handicap was won by Mr. Joseph Ellis, of Lithgow, with 10 birds, and Mr. George Seaman, of Bathurst, second. A second sweep was won by Mr. Seaman with four birds, a third by W. Ferguson, of Tarana, with two birds, and a fourth by Mr. George Seaman, with a fifth by Mr. S. Macabee with three birds. A double sweep was divided by Mr. Ellis and Mr. Macabee, they shooting both birds. All the birds flew excellently, and the shooting was very good. The next medal match will be shot for to-day at T. M. Malone's ground, Tempe, Cook River, to commence at 2 o'clock. Those who are interested in the match should be at the starting match, all from 26 yards, use of both barrels, for a £20 trophy, will take place after the principal match.

THE BULLI COLLIERY DISASTER.

MEETING AT BOTANY.
A public meeting of the inhabitants of Botany was held under the auspices of the Progress Association, at the School of Arts, last night, for the purpose of evoking the sympathy of the residents of the district, and asking means for providing funds for the relief of the sufferers from the Bulli disaster. The attendance was very meagre. The chair was occupied by Mr. W. Stephen, M.L.A., and amongst those who were present were Mr. J. W. G. Macfarlane, Mr. George Rutherford, Mr. Joshua Wiggins, Mr. W. Moran, Mr. MacFarlane, and Mr. George Gaston.

THE CATHEDRAL. In opening the proceedings, regretted that the attendance had been so small, but expressed a hope that, although this was but a small beginning, the result would be large. It was not intended that subscriptions should be taken at that time, but rather that the meeting should devise means for providing funds for an entertainment, or succession of entertainments, which would not only realise money

Mr. SHELLEY proposed "That this meeting of the residents of Botany district hereby expresses sincere sympathy and commiseration for the distresses to which the widows of the Bulli colliery district are subjected. He said that on an occasion of this kind it was hardly possible for him to say much more than to express sympathy for the unfortunate widows, and to say that he was sure that the Government would do the best feelings of all natures. There could be no doubt that the sympathy for these unfortunate widows and orphans was universal, and that it was not only the sympathy of everyone who had any human feeling at all. The poignant distress, the agony and grief, into which the helpless widows and orphans were plunged, was a sight that would be a lesson to all who had read the accounts of the distress which had been published. There was no heart throughout the Australian colonies that would not be beating that sympathy, and sympathy upon sympathy. The Government had done much to relieve the immediate wants of the husbandless and fatherless, and it remained for the people to do the rest."

Mr. WIDGONS seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

Mr. WIDGONS announced "That with a view to affording pecuniary relief to the widows, orphans and others left destitute by the Bulli district, subscription lists have been sent to a considerable number of gentlemen, and to the Mayor of Sydney, and a general appeal is made to all persons who are able to contribute and arrange for public entertainments, and co-operate generally with the central committee in Sydney, the proceeds to be handed over to Mr. A. B. Mayne of the Bulli district, who will do his utmost, no matter how eloquent they might be, to induce any subscription to commend the resolution to the meeting. He would, however, impress upon the minds of all those who were present, that towards the object the meeting was called to promote."

It was possible, however, to prevent the sorrows of the nation from being increased by the loss of the lives of the men. Mr. MACFARLANE seconded the resolution, remarking that when this matter was first brought under the attention of the Freeholders of the County, he was well aware that the men were in a state of poverty, and that they could take action many in the community would have given all they were able to spare by their subscriptions elsewhere. For the reason it was not possible to give them the assistance that they ought to raise money by other means. They therefore formed themselves into a committee and organised this association, and he was glad to see that the committee had elected that Mr. Frank Smith, of Sir Joseph Banks' Hotel, had kindly promised to grant the use of his large hall for the purpose of the meeting, and that the meeting was carried unanimously.

The Rev. G. SUTHERLAND proposed,—"That this meeting should be opened by the reading of the names of the men who had risked their lives in endeavouring to rescue their fellow-workmen. It was necessary, while they relieved distress, to think of these men, knowing the danger to which they were exposed, and the great loss which they had put at the peril of their lives to rescue their fellow-men, not knowing whether they were dead or alive, and to know that they were still in the hands of the slaveholders upon these men. They read sometimes of the victims of China being subjected to acts of brutality, and the people of this country were not prepared to take any public recognition of their conduct for their services."

Mr. GASTON seconded the resolution, which was carried.

On the motion of Mr. Linn, seconded by Mr.

Woolgarham, it was resolved that the gentlemen present should form themselves into a committee to carry out the objects of the meeting.

The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the chairman for presiding.

The following meeting was afterwards held, at which three honorary secretaries, two treasurers, and an executive committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the entertainment to be held

THE POPULATION OF THE AUSTRALIAN COLONIES.

(From the Melbourne Argus, April 11.)

Mr. H. H. Hayer, the Government Statistician, has prepared the following return of the "apparent" population of each of the Australian colonies as at the 31st December 1900. The word "apparent" is applied to the population instead of "estimated," as the figure represents the numbers of the population as they appear to be constituted by the results of the census, with the addition of the excess of registered births over registered deaths, and of recorded arrivals over recorded departures (by sea and land) between the 31st December 1899 and the 31st of 1898. Whilst most of the deaths and arrivals are ascertained, it is known that some of the births and departures are not, and in all cases the figures are only estimates. It is, however, obviously so the apparent population to be ascertained.
